

6

Preliminary Assessment of Climatic Sensitivity of Riparian Old-Growth Eastern Hemlock

Holden examines how monthly climate variables affect radial growth of eastern hemlock located within an old-growth stand in central Appalachia.

S

14

Community and Crime Dynamics in Rural West Virginia Communities

Ryczek examines how the dynamic processes in rural West Virginia residences affect the risk of being the victim of a crime and the chances that residents will be fearful of crime.

t

20

Faculty Spotlight

Featuring Dr. Dana Huebert Lima and Dr. Michelle Richards-Babb

n

21

Association between Stroke Health Literacy and Insurance with Stroke Severity and Post-Stroke Depression

Clairmont and colleagues analyze the importance of understanding the relationship between stroke health literacy and insurance coverage on post-stroke outcomes, including post-stroke depression and stroke severity.

e

27

Student-Submitted Artwork

t

29

Sex Workers of West Virginia: Contrasting Experiences

Thompson explores the connection between sex work, identities for sex workers, and how these have been impacted by their experience in the field in West Virginia.

n

35

The Impact of Vision Zero Initiatives on Road User Safety in New York City

Phares, Hossen, and Dey examine the impact of an important traffic safety project, Vision Zero, and break down the initiatives on various transportation methods throughout New York City.

o

43

Depression and Socioeconomic Status in West Virginians

Using surveys conducted over social media platforms, Phillips examines the relationship between socioeconomic status and the presentation of depression in West Virginia residents.

c

51

Student Spotlight

Featuring Jeffrey Petty and Savannah Hays.

53

Health Care Disparities Around the Globe

Hodak and Nicholson break down the discrepancies within the healthcare system and work to understand the impact of socioeconomic status as a barrier in different areas around the world.

59

Acknowledgements and From The Editors