we need answers... yesterday

There's work to be done. Practices and procedures that were effective years ago aren't effective today. Outmoded laws need improvement and, in many cases, replacement. Specialized fields of practice that have come of age in the past few years have raised problems that demand immediate solutions. And recent dramatic advances in technology and the life sciences could affect the entire concept of the Law as we know and practice it today.

We can't push these problems into a corner. They need to be met head on. And now.

The American Bar Association offers you an effective framework for active participation in helping to shape workable answers to the problems we face. With an aggressive program for action and vigorous leadership to back it up, the ABA offers you an unprecedented opportunity for more meaningful contributions to the Law... and to our profession.

And don't overlook library and information services at your fingertips ... experienced professional contacts ... publications that work for you ... participation in the American Bar Endowment Group Life and Disability Insurance Programs.

Doesn't today's ABA sound like your kind of professional legal organization? For complete information, write for the ABA Membership Guide.
