law building a suitable bronze memorial tablet which many think should be placed there in memory of the West Virginia lawyers who served in the World War. It is proposed that any funds remaining after the portraits and memorial have been paid for shall be devoted to the purchase of engravings and etchings of distinguished judges and lawyers to be hung in the new building. The inspiration to the students and the legal atmosphere given to the building by such portraits and memorials should add much to the dignity and usefulness of the new structure.

ATTENDANCE AT COLLEGE OF LAW IN 1919-20.—The catalog of the College of Law which has been recently issued shows that the attendance during the past year numbered 66, of whom 29 were first-year students, 16 were second-year students, 17 were third-year students, and 4 were special students. The number of first-year students and the total number registered for the degree of Bachelor of Laws are slightly larger than in any previous year. Twenty-three either had received already the Bachelor of Arts degree from West Virginia University or from some other college or were combination six-year students who will receive both the Arts and Law degrees. The desire of a majority of law students to complete at least three years of college work before entering the College of Law and thus receive both the Arts and Law degrees is apparent.

THE JAMES F. BROWN PRIZE AT WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY.—Mr. James F. Brown, of the Charleston Bar, a member of the class of 1873 of West Virginia University, has given $5,000 to the University, the proceeds to be invested by it and the income used as a prize for the best essay submitted each year on a subject concerning the privileges and immunities of citizens guaranteed by the federal or state constitutions. Students in the senior class and within one year after graduation are eligible to compete. This prize is one of the largest offered in any law school in the country.
