January 1918

Editors Called to War Service

Follow this and additional works at: https://researchrepository.wvu.edu/wvlr

Part of the Legal Education Commons

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://researchrepository.wvu.edu/wvlr/vol25/iss2/4

This Editorial Note is brought to you for free and open access by the WVU College of Law at The Research Repository @ WVU. It has been accepted for inclusion in West Virginia Law Review by an authorized editor of The Research Repository @ WVU. For more information, please contact ian.harmon@mail.wvu.edu.
Editors Called to War Service.—Since the publication of the November number of the Law Quarterly, two of the Associate Student Editors, Edgar C. Glass and Julien L. Hagen, have volunteered for military service, and one of the Board of Editors, Professor J. R. Trotter, has been called to assist Col. Earl W. Ogbey, State Food Administrator, in work throughout the state. The law faculty, though performing the common advisory duties assumed by all members of the bar at this time and the additional responsibilities arising from the previous resignation of Professor Howard, have very gladly assumed the further duties arising from the considerable rearrangements imposed by Professor Trotter’s absence, thus making it possible for him, in a sense a representative of the whole faculty, to do this patriotic service. It is under these pressing circumstances that the January number of the Law Quarterly is issued.

Law Students and the War.—The December number of The American Law School Review publishes a list of 92 American law